

JT songwriter reviews

"Unique, talented, one-of-a-kind." -Tom T. Hall

"Jim Terr is a very talented singer/writer and I hope you enjoy his songs as much as I do."

- Bobby Braddock (writer of some of the most popular songs in the history of country music, such as "He Stopped Loving Her Today," "Golden Ring," "Something to Brag About," "D-I-V-O-R-C-E," "We're Not the Jet Set," "Old Flames Have New Names," "Let's Talk About Me," many others.

"A prolific creator of original wit and music, with a dedicated following on the internet, his discovery is still shamefully overlooked by the entertainment industry."

-Tony Byworth, UK journalist and author, co-editor of the BILLBOARD ENCYCLOPEDIA OF COUNTRY MUSIC.

...[Jim Terr has been] described as a modern day Mark Twain, Will Rogers, Jimmie Rodgers and Jackie Mason rolled into one. Can I add to that list names like Shel Silverstein, Tom T. Hall, Bobby Bare, Ray Stevens and the likes-- master wordsmiths all, and country boys too...

-Brian Ahern, Country Music & More (UK)

"Bodacious" -Dave Barry

"Wise, witty and whimsical (and sometimes sad)" -Tony Hillerman

"Some of the most thoroughly enjoyable tunes I've ever heard...tiny monuments to songwriting...For whatever elements came together to make the genius of Jim Terr and his music happen, we should be truly gleeful, grateful and gratified...." "He shares equal territory with the folksy politicism of Phil Ochs, the sheer songwriting skill of Townes van Zandt, and the shamelessly naive sense of ironic humor of Loudon Wainwright III."

-Bill Hutchison, Santa Fe Reporter and Anthologist's Cabinet

Jim Marshall, British Country Music Bulletin:

An entertaining, description-defying collection... If one were to invite comparisons, you'd perhaps liken Jim Terr to Tom T. Hall, or, perhaps Paul Craft.

"A highly creative, satirical Outlander and asskicking comedian without parallel; an excellent writer...reminds me of Calvin Trillin..." -Mike Malloy

"Jim Terr's spirit shows through consistently in his songs... It's the droll, sardonic, 'cut-the-B.S.' outlook known around the world as American." -James Fallows

"Jim Terr's creativity and versatility are unmatched. Well, almost unmatched."
-Hodding Carter III

"One of the true creative geniuses of our time. .This guy does some of the best satire in the business. One of the great comedic and auditory geniuses of our day."

—Thom Hartmann
